Abstract

The book of Injl is one of the parts of the New Testament, consisting of four books, namely Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John. The gospel is the foundation for carrying out educational actions for the world in which Jesus Christ has given instructions, methods, and ways of implementation. The Gospel usually means the news about God's saving activity in Jesus Christ or the news that conveys the story of Jesus' life, death, and resurrection with the aim of saving His beloved mankind. In an effort to trace this intent, qualitative-descriptive research methods are used. The result obtained is that the purpose of the PAK based on the gospel is to know that God takes the initiative in saving the humanity he loves.

Keywords: Gospel, God's Salvation; Theology of Christian Religious Education; The purpose of Christian education.

Introduction

The Gospels are believed to be an important guide to life for Christians. The gospel comes from the Greek word, ευαγγέλιον, euangelion, which means good news (Johnson et al., 2021; Keener, 2023). The Gospel is a term used to refer to the first four books of the New Testament Bible according to Christian belief (Adedeji & Lenz, 2024; Fan, 2024). The four books, the Gospel of Matthew, the Gospel of Mark, the Gospel of Luke, and the Gospel of John, are called the Good News because Christians believe that the narrative of the four Gospels that culminates in the death and resurrection of Jesus is the story of God's salvation of sinful mankind so that people can come back to know the true God and gain eternal life (Hwang et al., 2021; Salinas, 2022; Wenham, 2020).

Education is a process of humanizing human beings to a better, more advanced, more valuable, and more civilized level. In addition, humans are also naturally given the ability to think as a driving force to want to change, improve, advance, and improve their standard of living, and all of this can only be obtained through education. So, education is an integral part of human life (Johnson et al., 2021; Mugo et al., 2024; Saoke et al., 2023).

Education is one of the main concerns in the Bible. In the Bible, educators and students play an educational process. This role occurs between God and His people. The Bible testifies that God is a peerless educator (Job 36:22) and that no one can teach Him (Job 21:22; Yes. 40:14). He taught knowledge to man (Ps. 94:10).¹ God's teaching to man occurred throughout human history, which can be seen from various events (Saoke et al., 2022, 2023). Among them are God teaching Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden (Gen. 1-2), God teaching the generation after Adam and Eve, namely Cain, Abel, and other descendants of Adam (Gen. 5:22-24), God teaching by making a covenant with Noah and his descendants, God teaching Abraham (Gen. 12:22), God teaching the Israelites from Egypt and on the way to Canaan (Gray, 2020; IS, 2023; Swaner et al., 2023). In the educational efforts provided by Allah, he not only acts as an educator but also a planner and implementer of education. So, education is a process that has started since the creation of the world and continues to take place in the history of human existence.

The importance of education is expressed in the Bible, and it has even become the main means of introducing every decree and purpose of God. The Lord Jesus Himself when He was on this earth, education was an important part of every ministry of His life. This can be seen in every activity of the Lord Jesus (Sinaga, 2023). The act of education through teaching is carried out the most, culminating in being used as a mandate for every one of His followers to continue all His works. This is stated through the great commandment to His disciples, "... Go and make disciples of all nations, and baptize them in the name of the Father, and the Son and the Holy Spirit, and teach them to do all things that I have commanded you, and know that I am with you always, even unto the end of time" (Matt. 28:19-20) (Santosa et al., 2021; Sugianto et al., n.d.).

This mandate is known as the great commission of the Lord Jesus. The great commission is the call to preach God's Word, which has value and applies to every age. Therefore, this call is not only given by the Lord Jesus, but His followers also emulate the same thing. The mandate that is not only valid and intended for students but also for all believers, including teachers as the main agent in the world of education, takes part in the mandate. The great mandate is the basis for teachers in carrying out educational actions for the world, which Jesus has provided methods and ways of implementing so that this mandate becomes the center for the implementation of education. Departing from such an understanding, then the author wants to trace the purpose of Christian religious education from the perspective of the theology of the Bible.

Research Methods

This paper uses qualitative research. Qualitative research is descriptive research with data analysis emphasizing process and meaning more. In an effort to complete the data and information in this paper, the author uses the library research method. Library research is carried out by searching and researching information from books and related documents. In collecting information, the author carried out several stages, namely: First, presenting some definitions of the Gospels, the theology of the PAK in the gospels, and the meaning of the PAK according to experts. As well as drawing conclusions.

Results and Discussion

History

History is an important aspect of the Gospels, providing historical context and background for recorded events. History in the Gospels covers many aspects, including:

- Historical Background: Describes the political, social, and cultural situation at the time of the writing of the Gospels, providing an understanding of the context in which the Gospels were written and their teachings.
- The Life Story of Jesus: Recording the important events in the life of Jesus Christ, from His birth to His resurrection, provides a foundation for faith and an example for Christians.
- Mission Journey: Recounts the journey of Jesus' apostles and followers in spreading Christianity, providing an overview of the development of the early church.
- Persecution and Martyrdom: Records the suffering and persecution faced by early Christians, bearing witness to their faith and perseverance.

An understanding of the historical aspects of the Gospels is essential for accurately interpreting its teachings, appreciating the cultural and social context in which the Gospels were written, and drawing inspiration from the life stories and faith journeys of biblical figures.

Theology

Theology is an important aspect of the Gospels because it is the main source of Christian theological teachings. Theology literally means "the talk of God," and it encompasses various aspects of God's nature, character, and work, as well as His relationship with man and the world. Theology plays an important role in the gospel because it provides a framework for understanding and interpreting the teachings and stories recorded in it. For example, the teachings of the Holy Trinity, the incarnation of Jesus Christ, and salvation through faith are all based on the theological principles described in the Gospels. Understanding theology in "about the gospel" is essential for deepening faith and understanding of Christianity. Theology provides a solid foundation for Christians to reflect on and respond to the teachings of the Bible, as well as apply it in daily life. In addition, theology also serves as a bridge for dialogue with followers of other religions and society at large about spiritual and ethical issues.

Morality

Morality is an important aspect of the Gospels because it contains moral teachings that guide Christians in life. Morality in "About the Gospels" is not only limited to rules and prohibitions but also includes broader ethical principles and values. As an integral part of "About the Gospels," morality has a close relationship with Christian theological teachings. The teachings of love, justice, and forgiveness, for example, have profound moral implications for the lives of Christians. Morality in "about the gospels" comes not only from God's commandments but also from the living example of Jesus Christ, who teaches unconditional love and self-sacrifice.

Understanding the morality in the book of Gospels is essential for Christians to live a life in accordance with the teachings of Christ. Morality provides the foundation for ethical decision-making, building healthy relationships, and creating a just and loving community. By applying moral principles in their daily lives, Christians can be an example to others and bring about positive change in society.

Mukjizat

Miracles are one of the important aspects of the Gospels, as they contain extraordinary stories and events that transcend the laws of nature. Miracles are tangible evidence of God's power and love at work in human history.

- Signs of God's Power: Miracles demonstrate God's infinite power and authority, proving that He is the sovereign Lord of the universe and human life.
- A Sign of God's Love: Miracles are also a sign of God's great love for mankind. Through miracles, God expresses His care, meets needs, and provides hope in the midst of adversity.
- The Messiah's Mark: In "about the gospels," the miracles of Jesus Christ are a sign that He is the promised Messiah. His miracles show the grace and power of God that reveals His identity as the Son of God.
- Signs of Faith: Miracles also serve as signs of faith. When a person believes in God and His power, they can experience or witness miracles as a confirmation of their faith.

The miracles in "About the Gospels" are not just amazing stories, but they have profound theological significance. The miracle shows that God is present and active in the world, revealing His power, love, and plan of salvation for mankind. Understanding and meditating on miracles in "About the gospel" can strengthen faith, deepen our relationship with God, and provide hope in the midst of life's challenges.

Prophecy

Prophecy is one of the important aspects of the Gospels, as it contains prophecies and visions of future events. Prophecy in the gospels is not just a random prediction but an integral part of God's plan of salvation for mankind. Prophecy serves as the fulfillment of God's plan, which has been established since ancient times. Through prophecy, God reveals

His will and gives hope to His people. Prophecy also serves as evidence of divinity in the Bible because many prophecies have been proven to happen accurately.

One clear example of prophecy in the gospel is the prophecy about the birth of Jesus Christ. Centuries before His birth, prophets predicted the birth of a Messiah who would save mankind from sin. This prophecy was then fulfilled in the birth of Jesus Christ, which became the fulfillment of God's promise and the hope of mankind. Understanding the prophecies in the gospels is crucial because it provides confidence and hope for Christians. Prophecy shows that God is in control of history and the future and that he will fulfill all of his plans. Understanding prophecy also helps Christians to prepare for the end times and to live according to God's will.

Testimony

In the Gospels, testimony is an important aspect that provides evidence and confirmation of the truth of God's Word. Testimony in this context refers to personal experiences and statements about God's work and power in an individual's life.

- Personal Testimony: A testimony given by a person based on his or her own experience of God's love and power, often includes repentance, healing, or deliverance from adversity.
- Biblical Testimony: The testimony contained in "about the gospels," both from and New Testaments, provides a record of God's work in the lives of individuals and His people.
- Historical Testimony: A testimony recorded in the history of the church, which shows how God continues to work throughout the ages through the lives of believers.
- Archaeological Testimony: Archaeological finds that support the events and stories recorded in "About the gospels," providing concrete evidence of their historical truth.

Understanding and appreciating testimony is essential in the gospel because it strengthens faith, builds community, and expands the kingdom of God. The testimony shows that God is not distant and indifferent, but is actively working in the lives of his people. Testimony also inspires others to trust in God and experience His power in their own lives.

Spirituality

Spirituality is an important aspect of the Gospels, referring to the individual's personal relationship and experience with God. This aspect includes the recognition of God's presence, spiritual growth, and character transformation.

- Communion with God: The essence of spirituality is to maintain an intimate and loving relationship with God through prayer, worship, and reading "about the gospel."
- Character Transformation: True spirituality produces an inner change that is in accordance with the teachings of "about the gospel." Believers are led to love God and others, live in holiness, and have humble hearts.

- Spiritual Growth: Spirituality promotes continuous spiritual growth through the study "of the gospel," ministry, and guidance of the Holy Spirit. Believers grow in spiritual knowledge, faith, and experience.
- Influence of the Holy Spirit: The Holy Spirit plays an important role in spirituality, providing comfort, strength, and guidance. The Holy Spirit leads believers to understand "the gospel" and apply it in their daily lives.

By understanding and living the spiritual aspect, Christians can deepen their relationship with God, grow in faith, and undergo transformation according to the teachings "about the gospel." Spirituality is the foundation for a meaningful and impactful Christian life, providing strength and guidance in facing life's challenges.

Ethics

Ethics is an inseparable aspect of "about the gospel" and plays an important role in the lives of Christians. "About the Gospels" teaches moral and ethical principles that guide His people in living a life in accordance with God's will. The ethical principles in the gospels stem from God's holy and perfect character. God is the source of all goodness and truth, so Christian ethics is centered on a life that follows His example and commandments. The book of the Bible gives clear instructions on how Christians should behave and act in various aspects of life, from personal relationships to social responsibility. For example, it teaches us to love others, forgive the mistakes of others, and live in chastity.

Understanding and applying the ethical principles in the gospel is essential for Christians because it provides a solid foundation for daily decision-making and behavior. By following Christian ethics, Christians can live in obedience to God, build healthy relationships, create a just and loving community, and be an example to the world. In addition, Christian ethics is also the basis for dialogue and cooperation with followers of other religions and the wider community in realizing universal moral and ethical values.

Christian Religious Education (PAK)

Christian religious education (PAK) is the starting point of the Gospel, which provides an understanding of the Gospel. It is a collection of Christian scriptures that contain the teachings, life stories, and miracles of Jesus Christ, as well as the writings of His followers. The Gospel is a guide to faith and behavior for Christians. PAK is a process of teaching and learning that is based on the Bible, Christ-centered, and dependent on the Holy Spirit that guides every person at all levels of growth through the teaching of the present toward the knowledge and experience of God's plan and will through Christ in every aspect of life, and equips them for effective ministry, centered on Christ the Great teacher and the maturing command of the disciple". PAK is an effort to develop the ability and insight of educators about the conception of the kingdom of God so that they can handle entering the real world (Lumamuly, 2021).

With the teaching of PAK, students' insights are developed so that they know Allah and His work and have a clear grip in their lives. At the 1986 Christian education consultation in Salatiga, it was stated that PAK is an effort to help students grow and develop to achieve a complete personality, as a reflection of human beings in the image and image of Allah who has love and obedience to God, intelligence, skills, noble ethics and responsibility to play a role in the development of society and the nation (Lumamuly, 2021). In addition, PAK is a teaching activity that guides students to know God's plan and will in their lives so that they become effective servants and mature students. Activities in PAK are carried out consciously and planned with a learning process involving students. As Harianto argues, PAK is a conscious and planned effort to lay the foundation of Jesus Christ (2 Cor. 3:13) in the growth of the faith of Christ by creating a learning atmosphere and learning process so that students actively develop their potential to have religious spiritual strength, namely foundation, self-control, personality, intelligence, noble morals and skills needed by themselves and society. (Helena et al., 2022a).

From the description above, it is concluded that PAK is a conscious and planned effort to provide knowledge, teaching and guidance based on Christian teachings and values to every student so that they actively develop all their potential and have religious spiritual strength with intelligence, skills and noble morals that are useful for themselves and society. PAK is assistance given to students in growing and developing into a person who reflects the image and image of God.

Goals of Christian Religious Education (PAK) according to Experts

In the book Christian Religious Education, Homrighousen said that Christian Religious Education (PAK) is based on the fellowship of God's people, PAK began since Abraham was called to be the ancestor of God's chosen people and even relied on God Himself as an educator for His people (Simanjuntak et al., 2021). (E.G.Homrighausen1985), 112. In another book, it is explained that PAK basically aims to lead the disciple step by step to the introduction of the events contained in the Bible and the teachings given by Him, guide the disciple in how to use the basic truths of the Bible for the salvation of his whole life and encourage him to practice the principles of the Bible in order to cultivate a strong Christian temperament and convince him to admit that The truths and principles of faith show the way to solve the moral, social and political problems in this world (Hotmarlina & Sondjaja, 2022). Meanwhile, for Groome, the goal of PAK is to enable people to live as Christians, namely to live according to the Christian faith (Lumamuly, 2021).

The essence of faith is faith, trust-filled relationships and a living agape life. Through PAK learning, everyone will be guided by teachings sourced from the Bible and then be able to believe, believe and practice these teachings so that they can live with the true Christian faith. In more detail, Sarianan Sitanggang stated that the purpose of PAK is to introduce God the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit and His works so that the faith and trust of students grow and emulate the Triune Allah in their lives, instilling an understanding of God and His works to students so that they are able to understand and appreciate it (Helena et al., 2022b).

In this explanation, the thing to be achieved in PAK learning is to introduce the Triune Allah and instill an understanding of Allah to students so that they are able to give appreciation to each work of Allah. PAK basically aims to instill Christian values in the social and personal life of students so that they grow to know the Triune God and His work.

Theological Analysis Based on the Gospels

Christian religious education is an integral part of the formation of the character and moral values of Christians. The Gospels, namely the books of Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John, are the main foundation of Christianity's teachings and beliefs. An in-depth analysis of the Gospels is important in understanding the essence of Christian religious teachings and their application in the context of education.

1. Analysis of the Book of Matthew: The Book of Matthew contains moral teachings that are relevant in Christian religious education, such as the teachings on love, honesty, and mercy.
 - a. Jesus' teaching of moral principles and values: In the Gospel of Matthew, Jesus teaches about the importance of living according to the moral principles contained in God's law. For example, in Matthew 5:17-48, Jesus taught about the virtue of love, forgiving enemies, and increasing truth. This indicates the importance of moral education in the Christian life.
 - b. Education of faith and trust in God: Matthew emphasizes the need for unwavering faith and trust in God as the core of Christian religious education. For example, in Matthew 17:20, Jesus taught how important it is to have strong faith and trust in God.
 - c. Expansion of understanding of the Kingdom of God: The Gospel of Matthew provides a significant portion of Jesus' teaching of the Kingdom of God. Christian religious education in this context includes an understanding of God's authority, Jesus' leadership, and the duty of his followers in building the Kingdom of God in this world.
 - d. Education for the renewal of the heart and soul: Matthew also emphasizes the importance of renewing the heart and soul as part of Christian religious education. For example, in Matthew 5:21-30, Jesus taught how important it is to guard the heart and stay away from sins.
2. Analysis of the Book of Mark: The Book of Mark emphasizes the importance of faith and sacrifice in following the teachings of Christ, which can be an example for character education.
 - a. Jesus' teaching of love: Mark's Gospel highlights Jesus' teaching of unconditional love. For example, in Mark 12:28-34, Jesus shows that love for God and fellow man are the two greatest commandments that must be lived in Christian religious education.

- b. Education about resisting temptations and trials: Mark describes Christian education through the story of Jesus facing temptations and trials in His life. This approach teaches Christians the importance of steadfastness in faith and efforts to resist threatening temptations.
 - c. Teaching about the importance of serving others: Through the stories in Mark's Gospel, Jesus taught about the importance of serving fellow humans as part of Christian religious education. For example, in Mark 10:45, Jesus stated that He came to serve, not to be served.
- 3. Analysis of the Book of Luke: The Book of Luke highlights aspects of service and social justice, which can be used as inspiration in progressive Christian religious education.
 - a. Jesus' teaching of humility and forgiveness: The Gospel of Luke highlights Jesus' teaching of forgiveness and humility. For example, in Luke 15:11-32, Jesus taught about forgiveness given to prodigal children. This approach emphasizes the values of forgiveness and humility in Christian religious education.
 - b. Education on giving priority to God: Luke emphasizes the importance of giving priority to God in the Christian life. In Luke 10:38-42, Jesus taught about the importance of choosing the best, which is to prioritize the relationship with God above all else.
 - c. Teaching about the importance of prayer in the Christian life: The Gospel of Luke highlights Jesus' teaching about the power of prayer in the Christian life. For example, in Luke 11:1-13, Jesus taught about the importance of being persistent in prayer and trusting that God will answer our prayers.
- 4. Analysis of the Book of John: The Book of John emphasizes personal relationships with God and the teaching of love, which is the foundation of spiritual education in Christianity.
 - a. Jesus' teaching of truth and eternal life: The Gospel of John emphasizes Jesus' teaching of truth and the perspective of eternal life. For example, in John 14:6, Jesus declares that He is the way, the truth, and the life. This approach teaches about the importance of Christian religious education in guiding Christians to truth and eternal life.
 - b. Education about knowing God as a loving Father: John highlights Jesus' teaching about a close relationship with God as a loving Father. For example, in John 3:16, Jesus taught about God's love that saves man. This approach teaches that Christian religious education involves an understanding of a personal relationship with God as a loving Father.
 - c. Teaching about the importance of witnessing faith in others: The Gospel of John emphasizes the importance of witnessing faith in others as part of Christian religious education. In John 13:34-35, Jesus said that all people will know us as His disciples through the love we show one another.

Conclusion

Theological Analysis Christian religious education based on the Gospels provides a deep understanding of the fundamental values and teachings in Christianity. Christian religious education based on the Gospels is able to form strong character and good morals in individuals. By understanding these teachings, Christian religious education can be an effective means of forming a generation with integrity and a positive impact on society. By contemplating the riches and wisdom contained in the gospels, Christians can find guidance, comfort, and strength to live in the light of God's word. The study of the theology of Christian religious education based on the gospels can provide in-depth insights into the foundations of the Christian faith, moral teachings, and practical instructions for living a meaningful life. Through an understanding of history, theology, and other important aspects, Christians can deepen their relationship with God and transform their lives according to His will.
